

GNAM Alumni Module Pilot Series

FAQs

Who else will be on the course?

Participants on these modules will be alumni from across the GNAM network.

How are places allocated?

Places are allocated on a 'first come, first served' basis by the host school.

Are there any other dates available?

Unlike regular GNAM Global Network Weeks (GNWs), the timing of each alumni module is set by the host school, so they do not all occur in the same week. Host schools choose the optimum time for alumni to visit their institution and location, to give the best possible experience.

What are the costs of attending?

The modules are being run by each host school on a 'not for profit' basis, with the fee charged designed to cover the costs of provision. Beyond the fee, and unless otherwise specified, participants are responsible for:

- Travel costs including airfare and transportation to/from the airport
- Accommodation
- Meals not offered as part of the module schedule
